STAGE NEWS.

"An actress engaging a new servant," says a contemporary, "was confronted with a demand for good temper, wine, and cinema money."

Quoth the housemaid, "I trust you're not snarly,
Because, if you are, we'll not parley.
But I'll come if I may,
Drink your champagne all day,
And go out every night to see Charlie!"

Questionable Titles.

"Who's Hooper?" evidently set a fashion. The latest additions are "Will Shakespeare?" and "Wat Tyler?"

It is nice of the police to warn us against vanishing notes. In the case of singers, the best remedy is a throat lozenge.

* * *

Says a current headline, "Anti-Profiteering." Is she? Well, so's Uncle?

* * *

I do not agree with the cynic who describes modern dancing as fox-trotten, but I'm inclined to consider bunny-hugly.

Albert Chevalier is responsible for this yarn. Coming across a street orator one day Mr. Chevalier paused to listen. "What we want," shouted the tub thumper, "is to get rid of Socialism, Bolshevism, Radicalism, Communism, and Sovietism." "True for you," agreed the inevitiable interrupter, "and when you're about it why not chuck in rheumatism."

* * *

Falstaff (when he put back the clocks to winter-time): "A plague upon such backing!" (Henry IV., II., iiii.)

* * *

And, on the other side of the wall, he heard Gloucester complaining, "Now is the winter-time of our discontent!"

* * *

Kubelik suggests that many violinists only lack luck. They don't all have Kube-luck!

* * *

"Take my own case," he exclaims—but he doesn't mean that you should take his violin-case.

* * *

Is Sir Harry Lauder right in saying, "A Scotsman doesn't let go a thing once he gets his hands on it"? Try a red-hot poker.
